Gov. Stratton Vetoes Pay Raise For Legislators

First of Three Convention Hall Measures Signed

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—Gov. William C. Stratton Thursday vetoed a salary increase for legislators, saying that the bill would have cost the state another $235,000 when the full 225-member Legislature is elected under the new reapportionment system.

The governor vetoed the bill to give representatives and senators a $1,000 annual pay increase, from $5,000 to $6,000.

The bill would have cost the state another $235,000 when the full 225-member Legislature is elected under the new reapportionment system.

"I am appreciative of the splendid work that is being done by most of the members of the General Assembly," Stratton said in his veto message.

But he said "the problems of a growing state have necessitated increased appropriations and expanded services. Local government and school districts have required additional funds. I believe that this raise in salary, even though merited, should be delayed to a later session."

The governor signed into law bills to give Cook county a $4-million-dollar convention hall and a $24-million-dollar expressway system. The convention hall bills in early June touched off the Legislature's longest filibuster in a House fight that lasted more than two weeks.

Others to be Signed
Two more convention hall bills are still to be signed. The bills signed by Stratton Thursday create the 14-member Metropolitan Fair and Exposition Authority for Cook county and appropriate five million dollars from the state fair and exposition fund.

The authority is given the power to use allotments from the state fair and exposition fund to conduct fairs and build fair and exposition buildings, which would include the convention hall.

Other bills signed by the governor will:

Appropriate $35,000 for a statue of Abraham Lincoln in Lincoln Square in Chicago.

Appropriate $44,000 for the State Water Survey Division's underground and surface water research projects.

Extend issuance of temporary provisional teachers' certificates to July 1, 1957.

Permit municipalities to re-issue bonds on outstanding bond issues.

Set up a state advisory board on administration of the coroner's act.

Permit the use of school funds for outdoor educational programs and trips within the state of Illinois.

Require issuance from free building permits for agricultural buildings by county zoning authorities.

Bill vetoed by Stratton would have:

Appropriated $20,000 for a statue of the late Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, Chicago Democrat, for presentation to Congress.

Required reports of cases of blindness by physicians and others to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Mother of Mrs. Ralph Davison Dies
Mrs. Nettie Furlow Wells, mother of Mrs. Ralph Davison formerly of Harrisburg, died Thursday at 1:30 p. m. at the Franklin hospital in Benton.

The body lies in state at the Freeman funeral home in Benton and funeral services will be held in the chapel Saturday at 3:30 p. m., conducted by Rev. Glen Daugherty, pastor of the First Christian church of Harrisburg.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Davison and Mrs. Charles Burkett, also of Benton.

Girl Dies of Injuries In Crash Fatal to Parents, Army Major
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (U.P.)—Seven-year-old Sandra Merello, of Philadelphia, injured Sunday in a two-car collision on the White Horse Pike which killed her parents and an Army major, died in Atlantic City hospital Thursday.

The girl never regained consciousness after her father's automobile and a station wagon operated by Maj. John J. Coleman, 38, of St. Petersburg, Fla., crashed head-on.

Her parents, Ernest Merello, 33, and Mrs. Elizabeth Merello, 30, were killed instantly. Coleman, who was stationed at Fort Dix, died 12 hours later.

Arlene Merello, 12, and Loraine, 11, sisters of the dead girl, were injured. Arlene was discharged from the hospital but Loraine still is a patient.

TO DEDICATE TRIGG MEMORIAL—A bronze tablet, mounted on a 3,000-pound native stone, will be unveiled and dedicated at the intersection of U. S. 45 about a quarter mile south of Ozark, Sunday, July 17, on the first day of the 25th annual Ozark tour. The tablet, shown below, will be in memory of the late Col. L. O. Trigg of Eldorado, founder of the Ozark tours. In the picture above, W. L. Simpson, Eldorado, is directing the lifting of the stone upon which the bronze tablet will be recessed and mounted. Clarence Bosket, Harrisburg, shown at the left, W. H. Farley, Ozark tour guide, Harrisburg, center, and Dean Hill, right, are assisting Mr. Simpson. U. S. May Ask $750,000 for Downed Plane

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The United States may ask Russia to pay $750,000 for the Navy Neptune patrol plane destroyed off Alaska by Soviet jet fighters.

Total damages involved in the June 23 incident could climb much higher when inquiries to the plane's 11 crewmen are determined by American officials.

The United States Thursday told Moscow in a note that it will accept an unprecedented Red offer to share damages to the plane and its crew on a 50-50 basis.

But the Russian pilots were entirely to blame for the attack carried out over the international waters of the Bering Strait which lies between the Soviet Union and Alaska. The American plane, the note said, was operated in "a correct and blameless manner" and did not even shoot back.

American authorities said the State and Navy departments would get together soon to figure out the bill to be presented to the Russian government. They said the $750,000 was a possible figure for the plane since Navy Neptune aircraft are valued at $1,500,000.

Authorities refused to give any dollar estimate at this time for injuries to the crew. Seven of the 11 were painfully burned and injured in the attack.

One official said some of the men would have to be retired for disability. Then some estimate would have to be made of what limited employment, if any, the airman might be able to undertake in civilian life. Medical reports, future physical progress and the like also would be taken into account.

Permit municipalities to re-issue bonds on outstanding bond issues.

Set up a state advisory board on administration of the coroner's act.

Permit the use of school funds for outdoor educational programs and trips within the state of Illinois.

Require issuance from free building permits for agricultural buildings by county zoning authorities.

Bill vetoed by Stratton would have:

Appropriated $20,000 for a statue of the late Rep. Adolph J. Sabath, Chicago Democrat, for presentation to Congress.

Required reports of cases of blindness by physicians and others to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Eisenhowers to Leave Next Friday For Geneva Talks
WASHINGTON (U.P.)—President Eisenhower, accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower, will leave for the Big Four meeting in Geneva next Friday night.

They will arrive in Geneva at 2 p. m. CST Saturday after a refueling stop in Iceland, the White House announced today.

The President, according to tentative plans, will leave here next Friday at 8:30 p. m. CST in the Columbine III, the White House Super Constellation.

He also will be accompanied by a press and Secret Service plane. The chief executive plans to land the next day, July 16, at the U. S. Air Force base in Keflavik, Iceland, where he will remain for about two hours before flying on to Geneva.

The White House said it is conceivable that weather conditions next weekend might force the Columbine to take another route, with a fuel stop in the Azores.

TRIGG MEMORIAL
OZARK TRAIL
IN MEMORY OF
L. O. TRIGG
1879 - 1949
THIS ROAD, FROM BATTERY ROCK ON THE OHIO RIVER TO GRAND TOWER ON THE MISSISSIPPI, WAS DEDICATED IN JULY, 1950, BY FOLLOWERS OF MR. TRIGG, WHO HAD LEARNED FROM HIM TO LOVE THE SCENIC WONDERS OF THIS AREA, AND WHO AFFECTIONATELY CALLED HIM "COLONEL"

25th Annual Ozark Tour to Begin July 17; To Unveil Bronze Tablet

Sunday, July 17, will be the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Ozark Tours by Col. L. O. Trigg. The silver anniversary will be celebrated by the "Ozarkers," by their families and others interested in the annual Ozark Tour. The 3rd annual Ozark Tour will leave the Ozark Hotel (formerly the Trigg Memorial Ozark Trail) at 10:00 a. m. from Harrisburg at 1 p. m. The total cost per person of this non-profit tour is $20.00. Reservations should be addressed to OZARK TOURS, Box 433, Harrisburg.

From there, those who have time and wish to do so are invited to continue with the Little Trigg Tour as it visits places of interest along the Trigg Memorial Ozark Trail to Eddyville for six o'clock dinner at the school building in the south of town. Those who wish to join the "Ozarkers" dinner should send in their reservations at $1.25 per plate to Coy King, president of Eddyville Scenic Sites Association, Inc. Others who wish to be there earlier in the day, bringing their own picnic lunches, may notify him. Guides to selected sites will be provided. Assistance will be given in over night camping plans of "Ozarkers" arriving the Saturday before.

The next event will be the unveiling and dedication of the bronze tablet mounted on a 3,000 lb. native stone at the intersection of U. S. Route 45—about 1.4 mile south where Colonel Trigg had his first printing press. Space just off the highway between two elm trees has been donated by Ray Bethel, Mrs. L. O. Trigg was with the committee when it selected the stone along one of the trails that Colonel Trigg loved. The "Old Guide," has taken the stone to his monument recessed, where the tablet is being recessed and mounted.

This is according to the plan made by some 40 "Ozarkers," veterans of previous Ozark Tours, who were active and honorary pallbearers at his funeral. "The Trigg Memorial Ozark Trail" is along the ridges of the Illinois Ozarks from Battery Rock on the Ohio river to Grand Tower on the Devil's Lake Overlook on the Mississippi, as planned by Colonel Trigg and carried out on the following July. Evergreen wreaths made by Colonel Trigg's son-in-law, Jack Cook, from the cedars of Trigg's "Resthaven," were tossed into the rivers at each end of the trail by the late Fred Wason, chaplain of the Ozark Tours, in a simple ceremony.

All of the old friends and former neighbors and others who favor the promotion of the attractions of the Illinois Ozarks are invited to be there at 2 p. m. to witness the unveiling and dedication led by Curtis Small. Members of Southern Illinois Incorporated, Greater Egypt Association and Historical societies are especially invited. State and federal forestry and park officials are urged to participate.

From there, those who have time and wish to do so are invited to continue with the Little Trigg Tour as it visits places of interest along the Trigg Memorial Ozark Trail to Eddyville for six o'clock dinner at the school building in the south of town. Those who wish to join the "Ozarkers" dinner should send in their reservations at $1.25 per plate to Coy King, president of Eddyville Scenic Sites Association, Inc. Others who wish to be there earlier in the day, bringing their own picnic lunches, may notify him. Guides to selected sites will be provided. Former Suspect in Gang Massacre, Dies on Golf Course CHICAGO (U.P.)—Anthony (Tony) Capozio, once a suspect in the famed St. Valentine's Day massacre, met a peaceful death on a country club golf course yesterday.

Capozio was once suspected of being one of the hoodlums who cut down seven members of the Bugs Moran gang in a Chicago garage on Valentine's Day in 1929.

He was a top lieutenant of gang lord Al Capone and for 30 years was usually called in for questioning on underworld murders.

But Capozio wound up his career at the age of 53 like any suburban businessman. He was playing the fourth hole on the White Pines country club course near suburban Bensenville when he died of a heart attack.

Six swarthy men rushed to the country club along with the fire department inhalator squad and stood about as futile efforts were made to revive Capozio.

The men didn't give their names, but they tried to take possession of Capozio's car. Instead, it was held for the dead man's wife and daughter, residents of suburban River Forest.

She settled for $1.95 and was released without further penalty.

Police Search For Degenerate In Girl's Death
CHICAGO (U.P.)—Angry police vowed today they would "get" the sex degenerate who kidnaped 8-year-old Mary Manzo, subjected her to a night of horror, and then killed her.

More than 100 policemen conducted a house-to-house search for clues in the southwest side slum district where the steelworker's daughter lived her brief life and met death.

A man was to be given a lie test in the case today. Meanwhile, squad cars filled with friends and relatives of the dead girl roamed the hot streets, searching for more suspects.

Mary, a smiling, light-hearted little girl, was kidnaped Monday evening. She was on her way home from a drug store, where her mother had sent her with 15 cents to buy a rubber nipple for her 9-month-old baby brother.

The child's ravished body was found Thursday by three street cleaners. It was lying in a dark, dark viaduct that runs a half block under the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

An examination showed that Mary had probably been killed by a blow on the side of her head about 48 hours earlier. She had been the victim of a bestial sexual attack.

That meant the killer had kept Mary alive during Monday night, subjecting her to vile abuses. The viaduct had been searched and found empty Wednesday, so police theorized that Mary's body had been brought from somewhere nearby during the night and thrown down among the rubble.

Police Lt. James McMahon, chief of homicide, turned away with a shudder when asked what Mary had endured before her death. The child's mother and aunt both faintly when they saw what the killer had done to the child.

Mary's father, Dominic, 45, repeated over and over, "He was a beast. The man was a beast who did that to my little girl."

Veteran police officers said Mary's murder was easily the most brutal crime against a child in Chicago since the kidnaping, strangling and dismemberment of 6-year-old Suzanne Degnan in 1946. William Heirens, at the time a young college student, is serving a life term for the Degnan murder and other crimes.

For the present, there were precious few clues to work on.

One of the best leads appeared to be a man who accosted and swore at Mary and other children in the area on Sunday and Monday. There were also reports that Mary was taken to a tall Negro man on her way back from the fatal trip to the drug store.

Mary's body yielded a few clues. Her red tennis shoes and underclothing were gone and the pink and white dress she had worn for the Fourth of July holiday was smeared with coal dust.

That led police to believe the killer had kept Mary's body in a coal bin or basement, probably only a few blocks away from the viaduct.

Probe Jailing of Mother for $3.70 School Book Rental EVANSVILLE, Ind. (U.P.)—The Indiana Bar Assn. planned today to investigate the case of Mrs. Charles Evans, who spent seven hours in jail because she owed $3.70 in school book rental for one of her children.

The case stirred up sharp legal criticism.

William Isham, president of the Bar Association, said he would name a special committee to investigate the case. He said it was "ridiculous."

At Indianapolis, Judge Saul Rabb said it constituted illegal imprisonment for debt.

Mrs. Evans, mother of seven children, was arrested Thursday on a charge of child neglect. Probation Officer George Fleming signed the warrant under a 1946 Indiana law which defines "failure to provide education" as an act of neglect.

Mrs. Evans, one of four persons so charged, was the only one jailed. She could not post $100 bond for her release pending a hearing.

Later, before Juvenile Court Judge French Clements, she pleaded guilty to the charge, but said she failed to pay because she didn't have the money.

Authorities then discovered she actually had paid the $5 she was accused of failing to pay. But they also found that she owed $3.70 in book rentals for another of her children.

She settled for $1.95 and was released without further penalty.

Estimate Damage
The damage was estimated by Wayne Robbins, drilling superintendent for the Hose-Austin company, at between $100,000 and $150,000. He said that this was only the second operation for the equipment, that it had been used once near Ridgway.

Hose-Austin has one other rig, now being used in Montana, he stated. The one here was drilling for John Stelle Associates.

The blast undoubtedly was caused by escaping mine gas. Robbins stated that the drilling operations had reached 80 feet below abandoned mine workings (it was learned that the workings were of the old O'Gara 8 mine which had its main shaft just west of Fourth street in the south part of Eldorado). The men were getting ready to set mine string through the workings when the blast occurred. Mine string is set to prevent mine gas from escaping.

The fire was still blazing away this morning, it was reported from Eldorado. The derrick toppled some time during the night.

Coroner Gibbons said this morning that he would set a date for the inquest as soon as he could get in touch with the men who were working at the time.

Employment Hits 64 Million Mark
WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The number of employed jumped by 1,300,000 in June to reach the 64 million mark for the first time in American history.

The Commerce and Labor departments today attributed the rise to 64,016,000 persons with jobs to another sharp increase in factory jobs as well as seasonal expansions in farms and other industries.

The departments also reported that unemployment rose by 190,000 to 2,679,000 persons, but the increase was one of the smallest in the post-war period for this time of year.

The employment total tops the previous record of 63,700,000 jobs set in August, 1953. But the total of jobless persons was still more than double the 1,200,000 unemployed in August, 1953—the post-war low point.

Then, Franklin County Sheriff Paul Collins said, Hodge went into the house and got a shotgun emerged and shot Mrs. Hodge in the back. Collins said Hodge then fired a blast into his chest.

Witnesses to the shooting were the three children, 12 to 16 years old.

An inquest was scheduled today.

HOT SMOKE ROLLS INTO THE CLOUDS as flames from escaping gas sear into the steel of the Hose-Austin Drilling Corp. equipment south of Eldorado yesterday afternoon. One man, Wendell Lynn, 29, of Carmi, died of burns received and another worker was injured. The operation, the Sutton No. 1, was being drilled by Hose-Austin for John Stelle Associates. Oil Field Worker Dies Following Gas Explosion

Death came during the night to Wendell Lynn, 29-year-old Eldorado oil field worker who was burned yesterday when a gas explosion caught fire to the Sutton No. 1 oil well drilling operation about a mile southwest of Eldorado.

He and Glenn Renshaw, another worker, were rushed to Ferrell hospital in Eldorado following the 11:30 a. m. blast. Coroner Elmer M. Gibbons, who made an investigation into Lynn's death, said he was told at the hospital that Renshaw, who was burned about the face and the back, probably would be released today.

Lynn, as well as Renshaw, lived at Carmi. He is survived by his wife and two children.

Two other workers on the brand new rig owned by the Hose-Austin Drilling Corp. were not hurt. Paul Beckley, driller, was not hurt although he was blown off the derrick floor, and "Smitty" Spruell when the blast occurred.

The damage was estimated by Wayne Robbins, drilling superintendent for the Hose-Austin company, at between $100,000 and $150,000. He said that this was only the second operation for the equipment, that it had been used once near Ridgway.

Annual Red Cross Meeting July 14

Bruce Burnett, chairman of the Saline County Red Cross, plans to hold the annual Red Cross meeting and election at a dinner which will be held Thursday, July 14, at the Methodist Education building in Eldorado.

All of the 300 Red Cross volunteer workers in the county have been invited, and dinner tickets at $1.25 are available to any member who wishes to attend. These may be obtained from Mrs. Helen Belt, home service secretary in the court house or by phoning Mrs. Carroll Porter at 224, or Jack Metten, whose phone number is Eldorado 224.

A brief but stimulating program is in preparation.

Gov't Releases First Vaccine Since June 6
WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The government released 300,000 doses of Salk polio vaccine today for immediate use in the nation's nearly stalled mass inoculation program.

The shots, made by Wyeth Laboratories, were the first cleared by the Public Health Service since June 6 when a little more than one million shots made by the Eli Lilly Co. were approved.

Today's action means a total of 1,837,000 doses of vaccine have been released under rigid new safety standards put into effect May 26.

All told, about 10,837,000 shots have been released by the Health Service since the mass polio inoculation program began on April 12.

In addition to releasing the 300,000 shots today, the Health Service announced two major moves to insure continued safety of the vaccine and to improve it. The moves:

1. Assignment of six scientists to the vaccine manufacturers to "facilitate more rapid exchange of information" between government and industry scientists and to "strengthen the expanded research program" of government and industry.

2. Announcement of a tentative research program "aimed at discovering new knowledge immediately applicable to the further improvement of production and testing of poliomyelitis vaccine."

Christopher Man Kills Ex-Wife, Suicides As Children Look On CHRISTOPHER, Ill. (U.P.)—Fred Hodge shot and killed his ex-wife Thursday and then committed suicide as their three children looked on, authorities said today.

Mrs. Marcella Hodge, who had divorced Hodge only a week ago, drove to the home of Hodge's aged mother with the children. Hodge met her outside and talked to her briefly.

Then, Franklin County Sheriff Paul Collins said, Hodge went into the house and got a shotgun emerged and shot Mrs. Hodge in the back. Collins said Hodge then fired a blast into his chest.

Witnesses to the shooting were the three children, 12 to 16 years old.

An inquest was scheduled today.

$627.9 Million Lopped from Budget Request

Committee Hits 'Chaotic' Finances Of Aid Program

By United Press

The House Appropriations committee today cut $627,900,000 from the $3,266,641,750 asked by President Eisenhower to finance foreign aid in the fiscal year started July 1.

The committee charged that a last-minute administration rush to commit $951,000,000 in unspent military aid funds piled up from last year's appropriations had created a "chaotic fiscal situation" in the program.

Apparently nettled, the committee cut $420,000,000, or 38 per cent, from the $1,225,000

Peron's Greed For Power

Editorial by Bruce Bissat
Argentine President Juan Pe-ron's blows against the Catholic church fit the classic pattern of the dictator seeking to enlarge and consolidate his power. But the scale of present violence in Argentina suggests he may have unleashed forces this time that he may find hard to control.

When an ambitious man is driving for the top, he invites the support of many groups, particularly well organized groups which can channel their energies in his behalf.

But once he has reached a position of control, he finds that the groups which helped him are actually competitive with him, according to the measure of their strength.
So long as they exist as powerful nuclei around which men will rally, they are rivals for the dictator's power. And it is not in the nature of a true dictator to tolerate rivals.

One by one, by one means or another, he crushes them. He wants no group, no organization, no force left which can serve as a focal point for opposition strength.
He wants a national society that is in effect a shapeless mass, which he may proceed to mold to his own will.

Peron has moved more slowly along this path than some of the world's more notorious tyrants.
This has hardly been out of regard for his competitors — groups like labor, the press, and the church.
His strength at home was not sufficient to permit him greater speed.
But he has moved. He has effectively enfeebled the labor party, once his potent ally. He smashed La Prensa, one of the world's great free press outlets. And then he tackled the Catholic church.

Since November 1954 he has hurled vague and unproved charges against the church, has jailed priests, closed the Catholic newspapers, banned religious teaching in schools, and cut support for church schools. His newest step, a constitutional measure to separate church and state for the first time in Argentine history, lay at the root of the recent crisis.

Church and state are indeed separate in countries like our own.
But we have a constitution which safeguards liberty of worship and other individual privileges. Peron would offer none to his nation's Catholic church.

Anyone who remembers the church's resistance to Hitler in Germany knows what trouble it can make for a tyrant.

But Peron was assaulting the religious faith of the great majority of Argentinians. The violence that ensued shows that he was in difficult terrain. He had no assurance the people would back him in this attack. Peron may at last have realized this. At least he has now made conciliatory gestures.
Looking on from the outside, free men must hope that he will never gain that final measure of support, that the church will remain a force strong enough to act as a curb upon him. For any show of independence anywhere gives freedom a headstart, and gives hope to men who love liberty though they do not have it.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Premier U Nu Comes To Congress.

WASHINGTON. — One Washingtonian who impressed Prime Minister U Nu of Burma during his visit to Washington was William "Fishbait" Miller, doorkeeper of the House of Representatives and chief greeter of foreign notables on Capitol Hill.

After Miller had introduced U Nu to all House members waiting to shake his hand, without forgetting a single name, the Burmese official inquired dubiously:

"Do you mean to tell me that you know all the members of the House of Representatives?"

"Yes, sir," replied Miller.
"You must be a veteran around here," suggested the premier of Burma.

"Oh, no, I'm only a freshman," replied Miller. "I've only been here for 23 years. The man on your right is a veteran. He has been here for 60 years."

With a sweeping gesture, "Fish-bait" presented Arthur E. "Gus" Cook, assistant architect of the Capitol. U Nu shook hands, commenting:

"Your Congress is, indeed, a democratic body. I have been in the parliament in Burma for a long time, which numbers 250 members. I am prime minister, but I am personally acquainted with barely half of them."

IT HAPPENED IN SOUTHERN ILLINOIS: Settlers From the South

By Irvin Peithman

Southern Illinois University
A thousand or more years ago there appeared in southern Illinois
a people known as the "Temple Mound People" or the "Settlers from the South." They brought with them an advanced culture pattern known as Mississippian, which included agriculture and the bow and arrow. After settling in the Mississippi and Ohio Valleys, it is now thought they were in periodic contact with other Asiatic groups of people which settled in the southwest and central America.
Many traits or ideas of the Mississippians probably were introduced from Mexico, including their style of mound building.

These Indians lived in villages that were made up of hundreds of well made homes of poles and thatch, with plazas and play courts in the center. The large towns established near East St.
Louis and others in the flood plains of southern Illinois were, because of their size, probably the dominating cultural and political influence of the Mississippi people. By combining a hunting and gathering economy and by learning to improve their natural environment through adding agriculture, it was possible for them to build houses and towns, and have permanent residence in southern Illinois for many years.

Cahokia Mounds

The greatest group of earth mounds left by these people is at Cahokia Mounds State Park. Here, on the flood plain of the Mississippi River, near East St. Louis, are about 80 mounds. "Monk's Mound," the largest, was named for a group of Trappist Monks who built a monastery on its top years ago. It is interesting to note that these devout men of the Christian religion built a monastery as a monument to their God, on the top of a monument built with so much labor, probably to the sun god of the Indians.

Monk's Mound is so large that a person seeing it for the first time can hardly believe it to be man-made. It rises in four terraces to a height of one hundred feet and covers sixteen acres, an area larger than that covered by the largest Egyptian pyramid. Engineers have calculated that it took the labor of over a thousand people many years to build this great monument. The political organization must have been high to release so much time from getting food and other necessities of life.

In the extreme southeastern part of Illinois, in the Black Bend of the Ohio River, there is another large village site and group of mounds, now called Kincaid after a family who once owned the land.
It has been explored and partly excavated by archaeologists from the University of Chicago. At this place one may see many mounds of various sizes. One mound here has a two acre base and is 30 feet high.

Question Unanswered

Archaeologists have never agreed on the explanation of reason for the disappearance of this culture. A once popular theory has been advanced that the Mississippians were overrun and destroyed by the less advanced Woodland Indians around 500 years ago. Unanswered, however, is this question: Why did De Soto, in 1541, encounter a large population of settled people along the lower Mississippi River, and why did Marquette find only a fragmentary population in 1673, or 132 years later? By the time of Marquette's voyage, 1673, and La Salle's voyage, 1682, the entire population was less than the number of people in one of the small river towns of today.

The French explorers were amazed by the absence of Indians along this great river. It seemed to them a more primitive wilderness than that along the Atlantic Coast. There is no mention made of a great concentration of Indians in the East St. Louis-Collinsville area at this time. The great Mississippi Indian site at Cahokia Mounds has been engulfed in tall prairie grass. Brackenridge, an early writer, gave a vivid description of the Cahokia Mounds in 1811, when the whole landscape was covered with wild grass. He was astonished by the quantity of human bones dug up everywhere or found on the surface of the ground.

Victims of Enemy or Disease

Many theories have been advanced concerning the fact that some of these village sites have been found to have been destroyed by fire. This, however, is probably not what caused the disappearance of the Indians. Though the survivors might have burned villages to appease "angry gods," it would only have been a short time after the villages were deserted for any reason before a common prairie fire might have burned them, obliterating all outward traces. The finding of outlines of palisades or upright posts supported by earthen embankments built around the towns has supported the idea that all was not well with their neighbors. These early Southern Illinoisans may have been destroyed by enemies.

The author has observed one village site in the southwestern part of Union county where there is a trace of an embankment built around the town for protection.

A more tenable theory is that they may have fallen victim to new diseases introduced by the early Spanish explorers in 1541, for in the wake of Spanish exploration came pestilence. One of these dreaded diseases was smallpox.
The Spaniards first brought small-pox into Mexico in the early part of the 16th century, and within a short period thereafter, three and one half million Indians died of the disease. It spread northward and the Indian tribes along the New England coast were stricken by the epidemic just prior to the landing of the pilgrims. There are historic accounts of smallpox killing over 60 million people in Europe in the 18th century, so it is not hard to imagine the danger it would have presented to the Indians' existence.

Springfield Mayor Opposes Plans for Prison Near Capital

SPRINGFIELD — Mayor Nelson O. Howarth today opposed federal plans to build a prison near this city to replace Alcatraz.

The Federal Prison Bureau announced it is seeking 10 million dollars for the new prison and would probably build it near Springfield.

Howarth said Springfield is associated with the memories and meaning of Abraham Lincoln and should not be associated with the publicity on hardened criminals. "Personally, I would be opposed to the federal government selecting Springfield as the site of a new Alcatraz. I don't think the names of Lincoln and Alcatraz go together," Howarth said.

Receives Honor at Presbyterian Camp At Little Grassy Lake

Catherine Anderson, a member of the Harrisburg Presbyterian church, received an outstanding honor at the Presbyterian Senior High conference held at Camp Carew on Little Grassy lake last week, June 26-July 2.

Each year at this church camp a boy and a girl are selected as "Camp Spirits," the ones most highly representative of the camp's Christian spirit. Miss Anderson was selected as the "Girl Spirit" this year. David Cox of Cobden was the "Boy Spirit."

Four girls from the Harrisburg church attended the conference. They were Catherine Anderson, Sally Boatright, Judy Wiley and Susie Seifried.

The preceding week at the Junior high camp three local girls were in attendance—Cheryl Wiley, Patty Sullivan and Nancy Anderson.

Camp Carew is sponsored by Presbyterian churches in Cairo and Ewing Presbyteries.

Wonderful for a week end breakfast: fresh muffins. Add accents of coarsely grated orange rind and light or dark seedless raisins. Fancier ones can be made by rolling hot muffins in melted butter and then in cinnamon sugar.

New Policy for Vets to Enlist In the Air Force

M. Sgt. Peter F. Demediuk of the local Air Force recruiting station announced that within the next few days a new re-enlistment policy will go into effect that should prove to be good news to veterans of all services in the Harrisburg recruiting station area.

The new policy will allow some veterans who have needed skills to re-enlist in grade even though they have been separated from the service more than 90 days. Those veterans will also have the opportunity to select an assignment from a number of bases in the United States and in some cases will have a choice of overseas theater bases where they would like to serve.

The plan was devised to increase the procurement of the much needed prior service technicians and to insure assignment where skills could be used immediately.

Veterans who possess an occupational specialty classed as needed and have been out of the service since July 1951 will also receive re-enlistment grade consideration under the provisions of the program.

In specialties which are classed in the surplus group, re-enlistment can be affected with the special provisions for re-training in a cho-en field which is classed as needed.

Periodically the recruiting station will receive a breakdown of skills categorized in order of the Air Force needs. The breakdown will encompass all occupational fields and will be listed in six classifications ranging from scarce to surplus.

"The first list has already been received at the local recruiting station and any veteran desiring information on the new policy is welcome to inquire at the recruiting office located at 20 South Main street, Harrisburg, Sgt. Demediuk said.

AGED POOCH RIDES POUCH A BACK—It's dogged determination that keeps Brownie plugging along after her master, postman Jack Reynolds, as he makes his rounds in Columbus, Ohio. At 11 years of age, Brownie's legs aren't what they used to be. But she insists on plodding every step of the way. Well—NEARLY every step. Sometimes her legs give out, so Reynolds plops her in his mailbag and totes her for four or five blocks. Then she's ready to go again. (Exclusive NEA Photo)

Death Has 3 Lives

by Brett Halliday

THE STORY: Unwittingly Private Detective Mike Shayne aided Jack Bristow, a murder suspect, escape arrest. Later, the body of the suspect is found under the bed in the apartment of Lucy Hamilton, Shayne's secretary. Visiting the scene, Mike finds a woman who says she is "Mrs. Pete Smith," whom he suspects of being involved. She is penniless and Mike finds her quarters in a hotel. Then Mike receives an anonymous phone call, threatening exposure by this woman unless he turns over some "cash."

XV
For the first time since the telephone conversation began there was a slight note of uncertainty in the voice. "How much did Jack tell you about things?"

"Nothing at all about any money."
"Could be you're leveling," the man conceded grudgingly. "They say you're a smart cookie, and I don't believe you'd try to bluff against the hand I hold. That means your secretary doublecrossed you, Shamus. If you haven't got the money, she has. And either I get it fast or the cops get you. I'm not fooling. You hold out the money and I take it on the lam and turn Beatrice loose to sing her song. Your lousy neck is worth the 80 grand you or your secretary lifted off Jack tonight."
"Eighty grand?" repeated Shayne in disbelief.

"Maybe not on the head. Something near that. I won't be tough on you. Say 70 for me. You keep whatever was over that and no questions asked. What could be fairer?"

"If there were any such sum floating around, I might agree with you. But I say there isn't."
"It's just too bad for you if you don't dig it up, chum. It's 10:30 now. I give you just one hour to come across. Here's the way it'll be. Listen hard and don't argue, because there won't be any ifs." Shayne held the receiver to his ear in grim silence and waited for the caller to continue.

"I've got a place I'm stashing Beatrice where she'll stay put for a couple hours. Say 1 o'clock for the deadline. I'll fix it so if anything happens to me, the police will find her at 1 o'clock. You got that straight?"

"I've got it."
"You got to her first if you cough up the dough by 11:30. You still with me?"

"I'm listening."
"Go to the Hamilton girl's apartment and fix up a nice little bundle. Have her walk out the door with it at exactly 11:30. She walks straight to Thirteenth Street and heads across the Causeway. See."

eral guys may stop to pick her up. She says no and keeps walking. Until one of the cars stops and the door opens and I tell her, 'Throw it in, Sister.' She throws it in and I keep driving. You be waiting at your phone right where you are now. If the money is okay, I'll call you before midnight to tell you where to find Beatrice and shut her up any way you want to. If not, she'll be spilling the whole story to the cops at 1 o'clock. You got all that straight?"

"I've got it."
The telephone clicked decisively at the other end of the line.

Timothy Rourke, who had listened to Shayne's end of the long conversation with intense interest, could contain his excitement no longer. "You look like an atomic bomb had exploded inside your belly."

"I feel sort of like it had."
He lifted the phone and asked the switchboard for Lucy Hamilton's number. When her voice came over the wire, he said, "Everything all right, Lucy?"

"Yes, Michael. I've been wondering . . .
"Stop wondering and listen to me. This is dead serious, Angel. Did Jack Bristow say one word to you that you didn't repeat to me?"

"No. Maybe I didn't repeat every word verbatim, but I left nothing out."
"Sure about that, Lucy? Not a word about any sizable amount of money?"

"Not a word, Michael."
"All right. Do this fast. Search every possible place to which he had access where he might have hidden a small package. Or a money-belt. Call me back the moment you can say positively he didn't stash anything there."
Shayne hung up and told Rourke: "I don't know who telephoned me. Here's what he said."

He went on to relate in terse sentences the gist of the stranger's statements and threats.
When Shayne completed his recital, he exclaimed, "What are we going to do? Who is he and how did he get onto everything so fast?"

"I don't think that matters so much now. Could be some guy who saw Jack enter Lucy's building. A professional job of tailing if he did. One of Gentry's cops, maybe, with sticky fingers."
"But how would he know about the money Bristow was supposed to be carrying? Eighty thousand dollars! That has a familiar ring to me. So does the name Alledice."

"We've got less than an hour."
"He figured it smart, Mike. There's no place for anyone to hide along the Causeway. You can't follow a car without being conspicuous. Once anyone starts across the Causeway, it's three miles to the Beach and most anyone will offer her a ride. Half of them will pull up and open the door on her side as he plans to do. If you get the whole police force out to patrol the Causeway, they'd have to start chasing and stopping every car that passed beside her."

One Dead, 13 Hurt In Minnesota Tornado

MARSHALL, Minn. (AP)—One person was killed and 13 others injured when a tornado struck a farm area near Marshall, in extreme southwestern Minnesota. Ronald Larson, 3, died when he was scooped up by the twister and thrown against a tree a quarter-mile away. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marlow Larson, and four of his brothers and sisters were among the injured. At least 25 farms were damaged by the tornado, and six were leveled.

There were 102,339 privately-owned automobiles in Norway at the end of 1954.

Coast Guard Calls Off Search for Mystery Ship

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard called off at 9:30 a. m. today a 31-hour sea and air search for a phantom fishing vessel whose purported report of disaster at sea appeared to have been a hoax.

Capt. Julius F. Jacot, chief of operations of the 3rd Coast Guard District, said Coast Guard and Navy planes and ships had searched an Atlantic area of approximately 3,700 square miles without finding any trace of the mysterious "Blue Star."

The Coast Guard said its search cost the American taxpayer an estimated $50,000.
The Navy, which added a destroyer, a submarine and several planes to the search effort, said it was unable to estimate the additional cost of its operations in what appeared to have been the greatest sea disaster hoax in recent times.

Maritime circles said the Navy cost might be figured at roughly equal to that of the Coast Guard making a total estimate of about $100,000.

House Group Agrees to Plan for Road Financing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Public Works subcommittee reached general agreement today on a new plan to finance a $2-billion-dollar road-building program by higher taxes on highway users and direct appropriations.

Informed sources said the group rejected completely President Eisenhower's proposal for a special corporation to issue non-treasury bonds to finance much of the program.
These sources said the newest proposal, still to be worked out in detail, calls for:

Tax increases of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline, 4 cents on diesel fuel for trucks, 10 cents a pound on heavy duty truck tires, and a 2 per cent hike in the excise tax on trucks. These would raise an estimated 11 billion dollars over 14 years.

The remaining 21 billion dollars in federal costs to be paid for out of general treasury funds.
In its present form, the plan calls for a 24-billion-dollar federal outlay over the next 12 years for a nationwide system of new and improved federal highways. The states would be required to put up $2,400,000,000 for such roads on a 90-to-10 matching basis.
In addition, the federal government would put up 675 million dollars a year over the same 12-year period for primary and secondary roads. The states would have to match this dollar for dollar.

No Job Problems for New Teachers

TEACHING AS A CAREER has reached new heights. Communities compete vigorously to enlist those who are leaving college. Tiny Mattis, of Columbus, Ohio, looks over a deskful of tempting literature from many communities.

By NEA Service
COLUMBUS, Ohio (NEA)—There was a day when school boards wouldn't let a teacher stay on the payroll if she was married and her husband had a job.

But that was long ago.
The crop of new teachers just being harvested in the nation's colleges will have no problems.

Communities are bidding for their services . . . even begging for them.

It is a sign of the times that the graduate from a teachers' college is flooded by pamphlets which colorfully describe the benefits of the various enterprising communities.

Recruiting teams from other localities ask for appointments for interviews.
As early as the first of the year, the fledgling teachers hear the alluring cry of "Come to our town."

Teacher raids are going on full blast over the country due to the shortage of qualified women.

At Ohio State University, for instance, 50 school superintendents or their aides from nine different states have bombarded the campus. They fly in from as far away as California.

One young school marm has had so many offers that she took a trip to try to decide which contract to sign. She called a halt after making 12 stops.

Harold E. Reynard of Ohio State's education school, described some of the stunts used by out-of-state recruitment teams to woo teachers.

"A few years ago," he chuckled, "superintendents used to look over the teachers. Now, it's the teachers who look over the superintendents." He sighed.

All recruitment teams have brochures advertising their schools and their cities. Some of the most colorful come from the West Coast.

El Monte, Calif., puts out one featuring a captivating looking children with the caption: "Please be my teacher." Inside, the advantages of the schools are pointed out and the back page is a map showing "El Monte—In the heart of the Recreational and Cultural Center of Southern California."

Some superintendents bring color slides of their cities. A few will pay the way of potential teachers to travel to look over their schools.

California schools, expecting a 300 per cent enrollment jump by 1970 started pounding on college doors in February to hire June graduates.

"We won't let the superintendents in before then," said Mrs. Hazel Brown, Reynard's aide. "The students haven't had a chance to get their reference records ready."

One superintendent used a wire recorder to play back the teachers' interviews to his board. But this hasn't worked well. It scares some teachers.

About half of Ohio State's approximately 200 graduates who actually want to teach already have signed contracts at graduation time.

Capital University could place 6,000 to 7,000 teachers—and it has 104 graduates.

Nothing could indicate the problem better than the position of Columbus' own school system.

Right here at the center of teacher training, the city has not met its requirements for next fall's school opening.

Though salaries have been increased as much as possible and classes cut to a size more easy to handle, the city still has vacancies.

So far 228 new teachers have been hired, but the staff needs from 60 to 70 more.

The city is out recruiting along with all the others. Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia have been scouring as well as the home state of Ohio.

Grew Up

Snider, Newcombe and Kluszewski Make National League Favorite

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Duke Snider, Ted Kluszewski and Don Newcombe have a chance to bring all-time high marks into the All-Star game at Milwaukee next Tuesday which could tilt the odds heavily in favor of the National League.

Early odds have the National League a slight 7-5 favorite for the classic but if their star performers keep up their good work the figures might go as high as 2-1. Snider of the Dodgers and Kluszewski of the Redlegs already have 28 home runs apiece. The all-time high on homers for a player in the All-Star game was 28 by Gil Hodges of the Dodgers in 1951, when for a time the Brooklyn muscle man was keeping pace with Babe Ruth's record of 60 set in 1927. The American League high on All-Star homers came at the time of the game is 26 by Jimmy Foxx of the 1934 Athletics.

Snider Top RBI Man
Snider, with 87 runs batted in, through Thursday's game with the Pirates, already is assured of being the top RBI man ever to appear for the National League. The previous high brought into the game was the 84 by Mel Ott of the Giants in 1934.

However, the highest runner in mark going into the summer extravaganza was the total of 100 amassed by Hank Greenberg of the 1935 Tigers when the teams recessed for the mid-season interlude.

Newcombe, if he beats the Giants tonight, will have a season mark of 15-1 which would make him the all-time high for winner ever to pitch for the National League in the dream game.

His present total of 14 wins assures him of a tie with the previous N. L. best. On five occasions pitchers brought records of 14 victories to the game. Dizzy Dean did it twice, in 1934 and 1936 with the Cardinals. Ewell Blackwell of Cincinnati in 1947. Bucky Walters of Cincinnati in 1944, and Robin Roberts of the Phillies in 1953 also had 14 wins apiece.

However, the best mid-season mark ever for the All-Star game was brought in by Bobby Feller of the Cleveland Indians, 1941 vintage. Feller had won 16 games by mid-season of that year and seemed on his way to his greatest season. He slowed down and won only nine more games to finish with a total of 25.

Kiwanis Baseball School Saturday

The Kiwanis baseball school will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. All boys from age nine to 15 are invited out.

This Saturday's session will be on catching, first base and throwing.

Last Saturday base running was the subject and after going through several drills a contest was held to see who had learned the lesson best. Zan Hefner won first and Mike Johnson and Terry Hegglin tied for second.

OLD RELIABLE — Pee Wee Reese will be 36 this month, but the shortstop is having one of his finest years with the Dodgers.

Dropo, Donovan, Pafko All Get Even with Former Teams In White Sox, Braves' Wins

By United Press
Next to getting paid, a ballplayer's biggest kick comes from getting even—especially against the club that traded him away—which explains why Walt Dropo, Dick Donovan and Andy Pafko all enjoyed the same special satisfaction today.

Dropo and Donovan, both of whom were cast off by Detroit, fixed the Tigers but good Thursday in pacing the Chicago White Sox to a 12-1 victory while Pafko, who was dealt away by the Chicago Cubs four years ago, hammered a pinch two-run homer against them to help Milwaukee win, 3-2.

Dropo, traded away by the Tigers only last winter, laced his ex-teammates for a grand slam homer and two singles, driving in five runs. Donovan, who didn't impress the Tigers when he was with them during the spring of 1954, certainly impressed them Thursday by hurling a five-hitter for his 10th victory and collecting three hits himself at the plate.

The homer by Pafko went a long way toward moving Milwaukee into second place in the National League. Sam (No-Hit) Jones was coasting along with a 2-0 lead until Pafko came off the bench in the seventh inning to hit his homer with Del Crandall on base. Bobby Thomson's single drove in Ed Mathews with the deciding run in the eighth. Bob Buhl pitched a five-hitter for his sixth victory.

In other National League games St. Louis nipped Cincinnati, 9-8. Brooklyn topped Pittsburgh, 4-3, and New York defeated Philadelphia, 8-5.

Indians Four Games Out
The Indians moved to within four games of the American League lead by licking the Athletics, 9-1, and the Red Sox beat the Senators, 6-5. The Yankees and Orioles were idle.

Outfielder Bill Virdon's seventh inning homer proved to be the deciding run in the Cardinals' victory over the Redlegs although Cincinnati made the game close by storming back to within one run of a tie after trailing by five runs. Southpaw Harvey Haddix was the winner although he was chased in the sixth. Ken Boyer and Sam Mele also hit homers.

Billy Loes racked up his ninth victory although the Pirates gave him some anxious moments when they scored two unearned runs in the ninth inning. Junior Gilliam homered off loser Ronnie Kline in the second inning and tripped home another Dodger run in the fourth. Preston Ward homered for Pittsburgh.

Limited to one hit by veteran Murry Dickson until the sixth inning, the Giants exploded for six runs in that frame to wipe out a five-run deficit and chase the Philadelphia right-hander. Willie Mays slammed two home runs for the Giants, his 26th and 27th of the season, while Hank Thompson, Alvin Dark and Gail Harris hit one each. Richie Ashburn homered for Philadelphia.

Garcia Wins Fifth
Two home runs by Larry Doby and one by Al Rosen were the big blows in Cleveland's 12-hit attack on three Kansas City pitchers. The Athletics led 1-0 until the Tribe rallied for three runs in the seventh. Mike Garcia scattered six hits for his fifth victory while rookie southpaw Cecarrelli, who held the Indians hitless until the fifth, suffered his fifth loss.

Grady Hatton's single with the bases loaded highlighted a three-run rally in the seventh inning that carried the Red Sox their seventh victory in a row and 12th triumph in the last 13 games. Norm Zauchin provided Boston's first three runs when he hit his 18th homer with two on off loser Bob Porterfield in the first inning. Relief pitcher Ellis Kinder notched his third win although George Sussce rescued him when the Senators scored twice in the ninth. The Red Sox are now only 6 1/2 games off the pace.

Thomson Wins British Open Golf Crown

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Peter Thomson, 25-year-old Australian star, won the British Open golf championship today for the second year in a row by shooting final rounds of 70 and 72 for a total of 281 strokes.

By winning, Thomson became the fifth golfer to make a successful defense of his Open title since the turn of the century.

Bobby Locke of South Africa won in 1949-50; Walter Hagen in 1928-29; Bobby Jones in 1926-27; and James Braid of England in 1905-06.

It also marked the fourth straight year that globe-girdling Thomson had finished either first or second in this tournament. He was runnerup to Locke in 1952 and to Ben Hogan in 1953 before winning with a 281 total last year at Southport, England.

The five Americans who survived for today's final two rounds fared poorly on the sun-bathed St. Andrews "old" course. Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo., the 1954 U. S. Open champion, made the best American showing by shooting 72 and 73 for a 292 aggregate. That put him 11 strokes behind the winner.

About the only consolation for the U. S. contingent was the low amateur medal won by Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., who last month won the British Amateur crown. Conrad shot rounds of 74 and 71 for a 293 that beat out Jim McHale of Wynnewood, Pa., for the lowest amateur score. McHale shot 72 and 75 for 295.

Byron Nelson, 43-year-old Rancho, Tex., pro, carded 78 and 71 for a 296 aggregate, while Johnny Bulla of Pittsburgh blew up with a final round 80 after shooting a 73 in the morning and finished with a 298 total.

Eldorado Merchants Win 14-10 Slugging Match in Indiana

The Eldorado Merchants traveled to Mt. Vernon, Ind., Wednesday evening and won a slugging match 14-10.

Going into the eighth inning Eldorado trailed 10-3. Then the Merchant bats exploded for nine hits, good for eight runs. The rally was featured by a long home run by Montgomery, Eldorado third sacker.

In the ninth frame Eldorado came up with three more runs and again Montgomery carried the big stick. He lashed out a long triple with two mates on base and came in to score on a wild throw during the relay from the outfield.

Sandusky hurled all the way for Eldorado, allowing ten hits, ten runs, walking six and retiring 11 on strikes. Eubanks was his receiver. King, Williams and Thompson hurled for Mt. Vernon with Price the catcher.

Cooley, Thaxton and Wallace each had three hits to top the Eldorado attack. Montgomery had two, both for extra bases. Gates, Sandusky and Williams each collected a pair of blows and Price and Eubanks, with a hit each, rounded out the 19-hit parade.

Don Wallace, playing first base for the Merchants, turned in the top defensive plays of the night on two occasions coming up with plays to rob Mt. Vernon of what looked like sure hits.

Sunday Eldorado plays at Henderson, Ky.

Legion to Play at Corydon, Ky., Sunday Afternoon

The Harrisburg Legion baseball team will travel to Corydon, Ky., Sunday afternoon to play the Lions club of that city. The Lions have a very fine looking ball club as local fans noted here last Monday afternoon when the Legion downed them on Bill McNew's three hit by a 5 to 0 count.

McNew will probably draw the starting assignment again and his mound opponent will be Jim Wallace who has several well pitched games to his credit this season; his best to date being a one hit shutout job over the strong Uniontown, Ky., club.

Making the trip for the Legion and looking for their eighth victory for the year will be Romanosky, McNew, Dallas, Kennedy, Ode, Griffiths, Guley, Williams, Logsdon, Hay, Dailey, Speaks, Parton and Miller. Players are to be at the Park diamond by 11 a. m. Sunday ready for the trip.

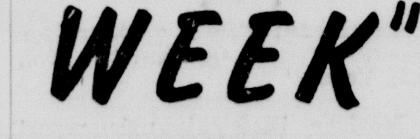

The best grass silage moisture range is 60 to 75 per cent.

Although about half a billion tons of bituminous coal have been mined annually since 1910, coal still in the ground in the United States amounts to about 95 per cent of original total reserves.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Exclusively Yours: Neatest bead swinging in the movie uncover girl season is dished up by luscious Lana Turner in "The Prodigal" but it was a farewell-to-glamour performance.

Lana says she's swung her last bead.

"I've served my time in the glamor department," she told me. "Now I want to do something more than just walk through pictures."

It was a new, determined, serious-about-her-career Lana, who said she will fight for "fine parts" until her MGM contract expires in two years. "And then," she said, "I'll play only roles that appeal to me."

Mrs. Lex Barker had to do some fast talking, she admitted, to costar with John Wayne in "The Sea Chase."

"The word was out that MGM would never lend me. I had to break the ice. Even if it was Wayne's picture, it was important to my career to work with him. I'm thinking of my future now."

There's another loan-out for Lana after she completes "Diane" at MGM. She'll do "The Rains Came" at Fox and:

"I'm in the clouds about it. It's the part I've been waiting for. This is a real dame."

REVIVAL OF "Davy Crockett, Indian Scout," filmed in 1949 with George Montgomery as Davy-boy, is a private chuckle for Walt Disney. Original release of the film ignored the king of the wild frontier and big-lettered "Indian Scout" tangle. Now Crockett rates the bold type—and you know why.

Overheard: "He's a three-time loser." "San Quentin?" "No, Las Vegas."

Marlene Dietrich's pals report she was shocked into an emotional tailspin by that article in a current gossip magazine. The wordage hit her harder than anything ever printed about her.

ANN ROBINSON and young hotel heir Ed Sweeney called off the love match. He's trying for an acting career.

Ginny Simms has been chirping at charity shows, but it doesn't mean a return to the lark league. Her two sons, aged five and eight, are her good reasons.

THE WITNET—Spike Jones is telling about the obnoxious doll who inherited a fortune, purchased a yacht and took a large group off on a cruise. Resenting something said by one of her guests, she snapped: "Remember, I'm the one who's paying for all this." "I know," yawned the offender. "Otherwise YOU never would have been invited."

NOT IN THE SCRIPT: Lady scribe to James (East of Eden) Dean, who belongs to the school of un-neat actors: "My husband has a shirt like the one you're wearing, but his is clean."

PREVIEWED: "The Seven Little Foys." A new twist on the "Road" pictures—Bob Hope on the road to dramatic stardom. But there's no shortage of laughs as Bob mothers a family of seven kids on the vaudeville circuit. Sample howl: Bob clinking a beer bottle with his youngster's milk bottle at 2 a. m. before both start gulping.

Hal Peary, who created radio's "Gildersleeve," is switching from comedy to menace. He's a deep-eyed villain in "Wetback," the Lloyd Bridge starter.

Ann Blyth goes supersexy in her "Baubles, Bangles and Beads" number in "Kismet."

40 Bills Signed By Stratton

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. William G. Stratton today signed 40 bills, including a measure to permit physically incapacitated persons to vote by absentee ballot.

The governor vetoed four bills, which would have created commissions to study juvenile delinquency and economic and population change effects, banned anything on or in a motor vehicle which obstructed view, and raised the benefit for veterans' or veterans' survivors' burial.

Stratton also signed other measures which will permit trustees to build and charge for student residences and facilities.

Allow the Chicago Transit Authority to operate outside Cook County, a bill backed by counties in the suburban metropolitan area. Create a separate state-county Public Aid Commission branch for aid to the blind, raise the blind assistance maximum from $65 to $75 a month, exempt $50 in earnings when determining need of a blind person and otherwise liberalize provision for aid to the blind.

Provide for commitment of sexual psychopaths as "sexually dangerous persons" under custody of the state Public Safety Department.

Require at least 25 per cent of the voters to petition for local option referendums.

Conservation authorities say 66,000,000 acres of American forest and watershed land are without organized fire protection.
